Nearly 20 years later, armed with new forensic technology, police zeroed in on the couple: Mangelsdorf, an independent business consultant in New York City, is now married with five children and lives in Pelham, N.Y.; Melinda, now living in Columbus, Ohio is married to a dentist and is the mother of two. His conviction was reversed again, because the jury didn't hear crucial evidence. In 2005, Jones, who chose to represent himself, was tried for the third time. Despite Jones' attempts to prove that Danny Busby, a teenage neighbor, was the real killer, a jury found him guilty of murder, and he was sentenced to 25 years in prison.

09/02/06 - 48 HOURS MYSTERY: “The Girl Next Door”- reports on two instances in which forensic sculptors were called upon to help identify murder victims:

1) on the night of May 1, 2003, a teenage girl's body was found in a trash bag left behind a restaurant in Castro Valley, California. The gruesome discovery became detective Scott Dudek's obsession and touched the entire community, which came to call the young girl “Castro Valley's Jane Doe.” The community rallied to raise money to bury her. Then, two years after “Jane” was found, as a last-ditch effort to identify the girl, Detective Dudek of the Alameda County Sheriff's office made the decision to exhume the body to search for clues that might have been missed. Forensic artist Gloria Nusse created a forensic reconstruction of Jane's face based on nothing but the skull in the hope that someone might recognize her. Detectives have tracked down over 800 leads to identify “Jane”, and more than 350 missing girls have been ruled out. 2) an interview with forensic sculptor Frank Bender of Philadelphia whose facial reconstruction helped solve another murder. Gregory May disappeared in January 2001 from Bellevue, Iowa -- his children suspected foul play. When May's antique collection turned up for auction, police found the seller to be May's former friend and house-mate Doug DeBruin. Subsequently police found a skull at a truck stop hundreds of miles from Iowa. Bender was brought the skull to reconstruct the face -- and authorities later identified it as May. Other portions of May's body were located providing sufficient evidence to bring DeBruin to trial for murder. Includes an interview with Ellen Leach of the Doe Network, a group of amateur detectives dedicated to helping law enforcement solve cold cases by scouring the Internet searching for missing persons and unidentified persons and matching them up

09/09/06 - 48 HOURS MYSTERY: “Blaming The Babysitter”- Thirteen-year-old Ashley Howes, a Seattle area girl, was given permission by her father John to act as a mother's helper for Morningstar Garden, a family friend, over the Martin Luther King, Jr. holiday weekend in 2005. A change of plans put Ashley in sole charge of two children -- five-year-old Madeline and 19-month-old Freya. During a period of time when Morningstar and her boyfriend Gracian Cline were out, Ashley said she heard a thud from the room where Freya was sleeping. On finding Freya in a fetal position groaning, Ashley called 911, and an ambulance rushed the child to a hospital where, two hours later, she was pronounced dead. Doctors told police that it appeared that the toddler had been violently shaken: she had major head injuries, including a blood clot in her brain. Ashley, having been interrogated by police for hours without the presence of a parent or an attorney, was tried for the child's murder. Because of the lack of evidence the case was dismissed and Ashley can never be retried for the murder of Freya Garden. Her parents are considering a civil law suit against the state of Washington.

09/30/06 - 48 HOURS MYSTERY: “The Informer” - a report on the moral dilemma faced by Jim Morel, a Norton, Massachusetts musician, who was told by another musician friend, Jason Weir, that the 2001 death of Marina Calabro, the elderly aunt of their bandmate Anthony Calabro, though initially ruled an accident, was actually a case of murder. In 2002, Weir, while discussing the reckless spending habits of Anthony Calabro, heir to the bulk of his aunt's estate, confessed to Morel that Calabro “didn't exactly die on her own.” With that information, Morel went to authorities, who re-opened the case. Eventually his friends and bandmates Jason Weir, Thomas Lally and Anthony Calabro were charged with the first-degree murder of Marina Calabro. The passage of time had complicated the case; but Lally was convicted of first-degree murder, Weir plea-bargained to the charge of manslaughter and Calabro, who had never given a statement to police, eventually confessed his complicity. Also includes comments by Marina Calabro's niece Donna, regarding Anthony Calabro's troubled past; Rick Weir, regarding his son's case; and Tom Lally's uncle, also named Tom, regarding the case.
